Description

The CROSBY HOUSE, built in 1938, is one of the only two examples remaining in Vancouver of houses of the early modern period. Designed by Robert A.D Berwick whose practice in the history of modern architecture in Vancouver is responsible for such iconic buildings as the original BC hydro Building on Burrard Street, as well as many early buildings at UBC. Completely rebuilt for the interior, high end materials and sub-zero appliances, 5 bdrms w? 4 full bath, 1 family room and 1 recreation room in the basement(could be an extra bdrm). Huge back yard great and lovely patio are for entertainment. HERITAGE B. Don't miss this classic!Public Open house: May 23, 2015 2-4 pm.
